

Thunder in a Winter Storm

My friend, my friend, I wish I knew
All the pain you been going through
You think I might not understand
Well that might be so and I won't pretend
I ain't a preacher and I ain't a shrink
Now all I can do is sit here and think

You heard that thunder in a winter storm
Titans clashed and a tempest born
Blue met red and cold met warm
A lone ship at sea with sails torn
One hand on the wheel and one on the horn
A weary soldier, battle worn

Day after day, losing color
It was going gray
Wasn't it, brother?
I didn't see it
And I didn't know
Wasn't paying attention
Your bright light became a glow

I might've told you you done your best
Now I'm putting on a tie, getting dressed
Once upon a time you were a star
I don't know how it got this far

You loved that truck
And that lazy dog
And Molly down at the Toad and Frog
We played our hearts out on that high school field
Always played the cards you were dealt
The boys and I were out drinking today
Laughing 'bout how it was before you went away

You heard that thunder in a winter storm
Titans clashed and a tempest born
Blue met red and cold met warm
A lone ship at sea with sails torn
One hand on the wheel and one on the horn
A weary soldier, battle worn
